

MORNING APPEAL.

Friday, September 10 1886

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE.

There is much activity as well as feeling in the Democratic ranks. One element is at war to the knife against Adams for Governor. They claim his defeat for the nomination. The field is, Winters, Mason Adams, Hardin and Saddler. Mason has been talked of for a long time, but declined the fight until recently. After a bitter and personal controversy with Adams, he threw down the glove and stepped to the front. It is probable that several opponents of Adams will combine their forces. If they do they will cause the adroit politician at least great anxiety. Adams is in the field. He will do anything to be the victor. He has his henchmen to work, and while he is in no wise, except in ways that are dark, the peer of either of his opponents, he may, from long experience in political tactics outgeneral them. The Elko Convention, which will not be a harmonious one, will tell who is the victor.—Reno Gazette.

Singular Accident.

According to the Silver State this singular accident has occurred at Winnemucca.

Last Saturday evening a young man named C. D. Williams, a printer, broke his arm above the elbow while in the act of throwing a ball. Dr. Kent, who was called to attend him, says the bone was broke by muscular contraction, but fortunately such accidents are of rare occurrence. The fracture was reduced and the patient is getting along as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

The Earthquake Prediction.

The Alta states that the APPEAL's earthquake prediction mentioned the second week in September is the time for earthquakes. Although several quakes have taken place this week this journal claims no credit on that score. It simply stated at the time of predicting the earthquake that it would be within sixty days, and it was.

Attacked the Wrong Man.

Several Adams' delegates to the Elko Convention, with whom a Gazette reporter talked last evening, did not feel at all confident of the nomination of His Excellency. Adams' uncalled for attack on N. H. A. Mason at the State Capitol the other day, seems to have aroused the ire of that gentleman's friends who seem inclined to resent the insult.—Reno Gazette.

ALL SORTS.

—Lost—A gold fire pin. The finder will leave it at this office.

—Wanted—A girl to do general housework. Apply at this office.

—The APPEAL acknowledges the receipt of the wedding cards of Amelia Weber and Albert O'Brien. Married September 7th.

—Thomas the new convict at the States Prison is shunned by every body there. They draw the line on such men as these.

—Go right down to Justice Gaige's and register. Let Republicans poll the biggest vote of the season at tomorrow's primaries.

—Just received at A. Bergman's, 25 dozen Boys' Pants from 50 cents up, also a few dozen Calico Waists, at 25 cents each. sep4tf —An old negro woman in Sayana predicts the end of the world September 29th. Persons indebted to this office will please settle up.

—Reports from the Elko Convention are still conflicting every man claims that he has inside information but no two seems to be alike.

—There will be no District Fair in Ormsby county this year owing to the refusal of the Governor to make the necessary appointment of Directors.

—Rich gold bearing gravel is reported on the West side of Mount Davidson. The papers up there have quit making fun of Norra, the divining rod expert.

—The way the hairs of horses' tails spread apart all over town indicates a great deal of electricity in the air, and is looked upon as a weather breeder of some sort.
